Nixon to Weekend At White House

President Nixon will remain at the White House this weekend instead of going to Camp David, Md., or Key Biscayne, Fla., the White House announced yesterday.

"The President will do everything he can to conserve energy and set an example for the nation," deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said. "He has a number of things to discuss with his staff and he will do it here.

Warren said that Mr. Nixon has not asked people to stop driving but to conserve energy by driving more slowly and by eliminating unnecessary driving.
